Title: Association for Multidiscipline Education in Health Sciences (AMEHS) fonds
Date: 1968-2014
Extent: .55 m of textual materials; 598 photographs; 1 postcard

Administrative History:

The Association for Multidiscipline Education in Health Sciences (AMEHS) was founded in 1970. It was renamed the Association for Educational and Laboratory Support in the Health Sciences (AELSHS) in 2005. The association was dissolved in July 2014.

The Association for Multidiscipline Education in Health Sciences was organization which achieved international status in 1981 and non-profit status in 1985. They advocated professional health education through teaching laboratories and simulations in medical, dental, nursing and veterinary schools to support core research and standardized patient care. Its principle purposes were to; “promote a multidisciplinary approach to professional health education by providing an optimal environment for teaching and training; to act as a clearing house for the exchange of information related to the planning and operation of multidisciplinary facilities; to foster and encourage research in the field of health professional education; to explore new ways to utilize the multidiscipline facility concept<sup>1</sup>”.

The initial idea for an organization of multidisciplinary laboratory workers began in 1966 when Dr. John Steward of Stanford Medical School met Jeanne Hensen (later Howe<sup>2</sup>), of the University of Texas Dental Branch, Houston for a visit of her multidisciplinary laboratories.<sup>3</sup> United by a multidisciplinary concept, they suggested meeting again during the FASAB Conference [Federation for American Societies for Experimental Biology] in Chicago in April 1967. During the conference, they met with Dr. Joe Baum of Northwestern Medical School at his laboratory in Chicago, IL along with Dr. Palmer of Arizona Medical School for a day of discussion. The next meeting of multidisciplinary laboratory workers, now called the Laboratory Directors, took place again during the FASAB Conference on April 17, 1968 at Zaberer’s Restaurant, Atlantic City. This meeting would take place again in the following year on April 16, 1969 and again on April 12, 1970 with attendance increasing from 5 to 13 people. During the 1970 meeting it was decided that they would hold a retreat in June to formalize the details of the association. The Multidiscipline Laboratory (MDL) Directors’ conference was held at Ann Jordan Farm, Alabama, 25-29 June 1970<sup>4</sup> and during the course of the meeting the AMEHS was formed as an ad hoc group until a constitution was developed and officers were elected.

The association began with two officers; Jeanne Hensen as president, secretary and treasurer, and Dr. Charles Daw as vice president and newsletter editor/information exchange officer. A Bylaw committee was also formed with Dr. Bob Votaw, Vernon Senterfitt, and Dr. James Woods as chairman. During the second annual meeting on 12 April 1971, a constitution was adopted and the Bylaws were adopted in October 1971. The annually elected officers would now consist of a president, vice president and secretary/treasurer. The association would have three permanent committees: Executive; Membership; and Nominations. Ad hoc committees would be struck as required. It was determined that membership would consist primarily of multidisciplinary laboratory directors and managers, but would be open to other interested parties on approval of their membership. Memberships were classified as Full, Associate, Honorary, Sustaining, and Charter. Each level had varying dues and responsibilities but only full (and later Emeritus) members had voting privileges and could attend business meetings. The bylaws were revised again in 1974, 1980, and 1981. Membership classifications were changed to Full, Inactive, Emeritus, Honorary, Sustaining, and Charter. The Articles of Association were officially adopted 19 June, 1985.<sup>5</sup>

In accordance with the constitution, the AMEHS would conduct an annual meeting and the association's business meetings, plus various reports regarding the multidiscipline education in health sciences were presented at this time. The AMEHS held these meetings in various locations throughout the United States with three exceptions. They held three meetings at Memorial University of Newfoundland, 1979, 2002, and 2014 and in 1984 they held a meeting in Hong Kong, China. Edward Evelly, Manager, Medical Education, Laboratory Support Services in the Faculty of Medicine, Memorial University, was elected president of the Association for Multidiscipline Education in the Health Sciences for 2003-04.

The AMEHS produced an annual newsletter. The number of issues varied from year to year ranging from one to four. Newsletters generally consisted of: presidents' messages; news related to the association; meeting information and programs and reports on activities from the members; book reviews; and job postings. The association also published an annual membership roster that listed all members, their classification, and contact information.

According to the membership roster for October 15, 1971, the first Newfoundland member of the AMEHS was Dr. Evert C. Vos, Director of Multidisciplinary Laboratories (MDL), Memorial University of Newfoundland. Other Memorial University Newfoundland representatives to become members included Dr. Chester J. Michalski of MDL in 1975; Mr. John M. Haggas, Technical Supervisor of MDL in 1979; Dr. Robert Mowbray, Associate Dean of Medicine (Honorary Member) in 1980 and Mr. Edward Evelly, Manager, Medical Education, Laboratory Support Services, MDL in 1999

Custodial History:

The collection was in the care of Susan Carter, Director of Teaching Laboratories at the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences, Office of Academic Services, West Markham, Little Rock, Arkansas.

Scope and Content:

The collection includes a collection of documents and recorded histories related to the foundation and early activities of the organization; membership and officer rosters from 1969 (listing the founders of the organization) to 2003; newsletters produced by the association from 1970-2010; bylaws and articles of association, and tax related documents. Also included is an extensive collection of photographs taken during annual meetings and include locations throughout the United States, China and Newfoundland.
