Scholarships, Awards and Bursaries

Students in the Faculty of Medicine at Memorial University of Newfoundland (MUN) are eligible to receive a wide range of scholarships, bursaries and awards. Many of these have been established in honour of past students. Others are offered by professional associations such as the Newfoundland and Labrador Medical Association. We are pleased to present this booklet which provides a brief overview of the scholarships, bursaries and awards and how they are awarded. We would like to take this opportunity to offer our sincere thanks to those who have contributed to the support and encouragement of medical education in our province by establishing and maintaining these awards.

Award recipients are selected by the Dean's Committee on Scholarships, Bursaries and Awards at the end of Phase II, III and IV. Selections are based on criteria established by the donors such as academic excellence, financial need and participation in student activities. Many scholarships are only made available to students in specific years of medical study.

A scholarship is based on academic performance. Students who fail one or more courses will not be eligible for scholarships. A bursary is based primarily on financial need and other conditions of the bursary. An Award is offered to recognize special achievements in a particular area.

Some scholarships are available by application or nomination only. Where this is the case, application procedures are outlined in the award description provided in this booklet. In addition, all undergraduate students are usually notified by e-mail when these scholarships are open to applicants. Application forms can then be picked up in the Office of Student Affairs.

Occasionally, awards from outside of the university are made available to students at MUN. Again, students are usually notified of these awards through e-mail or through notices posted on the bulletin boards outside the student locker rooms.

Various types of awards are available to students of Memorial University of Newfoundland. If you would like access to information on these, and other post-secondary scholarships, bursaries and awards visit the MUN Scholarships Office website or you can find the information in the University Calendar under Scholarships, Bursaries and Awards.

For more information regarding scholarships, bursaries and awards, students are encouraged to contact Mary Dray, (709 864 6300) in the Office of Student Affairs, Room M2M118, Medical Education Centre.
